16th ANNUAL CONVENTION

Of the Altoona District of the Epworth Leagues.

IN METHODIST CHURCH

Began Thursday Afternoon—Inspiring Singing and Addresses—The Church Beautifully Decorated for the Occasion.

REPORTED BY REV. J. VICTOR ROYER

The convention opened at 2:30 with about 150 present. The devotional exercises were in charge of the Rev. Morris E. Swartz, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Clearfield, District Epworth League president. The convention sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Throw out the Life Line," after which the Rev. B. C. Conner, Presiding Elder of the Altoona District led in prayer. The convention then sang "Trust and Obey" and the Rev. M. Swartz read the Scripture lesson from 2 Timothy 3:14-17, following with the foreword of the convention. Among other things he said, "We come from fathers who believed in a christian experience. A positive christian experience is needed today. We may have new methods but we need the old-time power coming from fellowship with the Lord and communion of the Holy Spirit. The convention is to be of the nature of an institute. This is the reason so few from the District are on the program. The idea is to learn how to do things from men of great experience. At the close of his address a short time was spent in prayer the Rev. C. K. Gibson, and Rev. Dr. Felt leading. The convention then sang "My Jesus I Love Thee." The Rev. J. B. Stine, pastor of the local church welcomed the delegates in the name of Bellefonte.

The Rev. Carl A. Felt, spoke on the "New Missionary Era." He said in part "We are interested more in things by personal contact. It is true as to missions. We have some point of contact in missions. We have gained our interest through contact with missionaries. We ought to pray for the missions. John R. Mott and S. Earl Taylor gained interest in missions through reading Blaikies Life of Livingston. Studying of missions and missionaries arouse interest in the work, lack of preparation for the missionary work years ago caused by no knowledge of the field. The missionary study courses came to meet the need. Through Student Volunteer movement many learned of the needs of the fields, many who are stirred by needs volunteer but never go. Their plans for life are made before they are stirred by the missionary spirit. The missionary impulse is then simple superimposed and the other plans crowd out the missionary. Had the life purpose been built up from childhood there would have been nothing to over come the call. Many fail physically and so are kept at home. The campaign libraries were put out to educate people. These were not largely read. Then came the study classes. These have reached numbers of people and have stirred their lives and many have thus been influenced toward foreign fields." The following points of benefit through mission study classes came out through suggestions from delegates and speakers.

Our point of contract with field, intellectual culture supplies a spiritual need; brings us interest with missionaries and need of field, developes our prayer and spiritual life, has led some of the members of classes to accept Christ, it helps socially inside the church.

The convention sang "Revive us Again;" Resolutions was offered that the members of the Young people's Societies and ministers of Bellefonte be invited to be present and sit with us in the convention. The Rev. Mr. Spangler of the local United Brethren church was introduced to the convention.

A short business session was held during which the following committees were appointed:

Committee on Nomination—Rev. B. C. Conner, J. J. Neal, Rev. J. McKReiley, J. W. Witz, Rev. J. B. Stine.

Committee on Resolutions—Rev. E. F. Ilgenfritz, Miss Lizzie Akers, Rev. Hugh Strain, Mrs. Charles Eckenroth.

The Rev. E. H. Wallace was appointed acting treasurer. The meeting then adjourned until 7:30.

THURSDAY EVENING.

The house was filled in the evening and services opened at 7:30 with singing "Holy, Holy, Holy," "What a Wonderful Savior," "Sweet peace the Gift of God's Love," and "When the Roll is Called up Yonder" The Rev. J. Allison Platts of the Bellefonte Presbyterian church leading.

The Rev. C. C. Snavely of State College conducted the devotional services reading John 1:1-12; 3:14-5; Matt. 28: 18-20 as the scripture les on and leading in prayer. The Rev. Mr. Platts sang, "Im a Pilgrim" to the delight of those present.

The Rev. Angelo W. Bonacci, of the Altoona Italian Mission was introducted. He said no matter how bad a class they seem to be nor how hard to reach their hearts are good and they are ready as others to receive the Gospel when put before them in its simplicity. The work in Altoona has been very successful and other places on the District are opening for the work and the Italian people are asking for the Gospel. The addre s was very interesting and gave light in regard to a much neglected home field.

The Rev. B. C. Conner presiding elder of the District, spoke on "Signs of Promise." His onening was an explanation of the needs of Italians in District, giving members in Altoona as 5000 and about same number in District.

As to general Foreign fields he stated that in Africa we are getting plans perfected for a great work; in Europe the fields all opening.

In India the silver jubilee has just been celebrated, fifty years of triumph; in the Phillippines the field is wide open and the people are anxious for the Gospel; in Japan, Bishop Harris says, "There is not an influential voice in social or political circles opposed to Christianity;" in China we are celebrating the 100 anniversary of the establishment of christian ministry. The field is wide open.

Closed by s ng "I'll go Where you want me to go" and benediction.

FRIDAY MORNING.

The morning session opened with a prayer and praise service conducted by the Rev. J. McK Reiley of Clearfield. The meeting was of the old fashioned class meeting type. From the hearty response one can feel assured that the class is never to be put away in the District during the present generation.

The Rev. Dr. Felt occupied the first period on the program with "Mission Study Classes." He advocated small membership at first for the reason that it will be easier to hold the interest of the few and any one whose interest is lost at the beginning may be lost to the class forever.

In forming plans consult with pastor. Lay plans and fix your n ght early in the year so nothing can get in ahead and trespass on your time. Get a good leader. Let the leader write The Young People's Missionary Department, 150 Fifth Ave., New York City, for plans etc. Read these carefully so as to get full particular of the work. Then talk it up so as to get others interested. Read four or five good missionary books. Have a missionary rally. Tell them there you re going to have a study class and that you will take one of two book in study—a home missions book or a foreign missions book to be chosen by class or leader as may seem best.

In assigning first lesson don't make it indefinite or specify a chapter but call attention to the things you want them to learn. The house is possibly the best place to meet. Don't change home have a permanent place. Have the meeting informal. Meeting around a table helps this, assign regular seats and arrange them carefully. Don't, as a rule, have any visitors. If it is possible to avoid it, the pastor should not lead. Watch the members for evidence of special lines of interest and try to supplement it by placing other reading matter along that line in their hands. Open with devotional exercises. Don't take a collection in class. Let any give if it comes spontaneously but don't solicit, class may possibly best be organized by personal solicitation.

Dr. H. R. Bender of Lock Haven spoke on "The New Purpose and Method of Bible Study." He said in part, "The problem of God's dealing with men is an old one. The Pagans world tried to appease wrath of the Gods with gifts. Israels sacrificial system was based on this plan. The problem in early church was to prepare for another world and not for this.

Later came the conflict over doctrine and doctrines became tests of christian character. The trend of the present age is to save a man for this life to make him of worth to the world.

Seventy Five out to the Rehearsal.

On Monday evening seventy-five young ladies and gentlemen were out to the first rehersal of "The Coming of Ruth." The practice was held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Mr. Noss who is a magnificent tenor singer is the instructor and gentleman who is getting the opera up. Mr. Dunning the organist at the Methodist Episcopal church is the pianoist. The music is sweet and catchy and very easy to sing. All the parts are very pretty. Mr. Noss was greatly encouraged by the large crowd the first night and was well pleased with the manner in which every one entered in to the work. It means a whole lot of study and work as he hopes to put the opera on about the 18th or 19th of July. The persons to take the 12 leading parts have not been selected and Mr. Noss will decide later who is best fitted for those positions. The next rehersal will be held on Friday evening in the gymnasium at 7.45. Every young lady and gentleman who have already sent in their names are earnestly requested to be present.

PRONOUNCED FINE BY ALL.

The Parochial School Entertainment was a Grand Success.

The Garman Opera House was crowded on Thursday with parents and friends of the Parochial School who gave their annual entertainment.

The front of the stage was beautifully decorated with ferns, laurel, spruce and white flowers. The stars and stripes were pre-eminent and hung from the sides in pretty folds. The combination of the "old flag" and the pretty flowers made a grand sight from the audience.

The curtain rolled up at eight o'clock, with a pantomime of little girls and young ladies singing a song entitled, "The Rain Drops." They all looked so pretty and did so well. Their voices blended beautifully, in fact they did so well that the singing was as good as a great many professional troupe that have performed from that stage. The pionist was Miss Mary Mott. Next was a drill and song entitled, "Only an Armor Bearer." The boys of the school had charge of this part of the program. The young men were drilled to perfection and their voices rang out in clear sweet tones and every word seemed to come from the hearts of the young singers in answer, to the Master's call for "Armor Bearers." Miss Flack was the pianist.

"The Hoors," a lovely cantata by the young ladies, was well received by the large audience. The singing was accompanied by Miss Crawford on the piano.

"The Bogus School Inspector," caused much laughter and applause from the audience.

"The Holy City," sung by a class of young ladies, was perhaps the prettiest of all, and was praised by everyone in the audience. Miss Montgomery accompanied the chorus on the piano.

The entertainment was one of the prettiest ever produced by the school and the result of a lot of hard work both on the part of the students and teachers. The gestures of the performers, the clear distinct accent in their speaking and singing, went to show that they have been properly trained in their school work.

The program was as follows.

The Raindrops Pantomime, Piano—Mary Mott.

Only an Armor Bearer, drill and song, boys, Piano—Ethel Flack.

The Hours, Cantata, Piano—Gertrude Crawford.

The Bogus School Inspector—Boys.

The Holy City, Pantomime, girls, Piano—Maria Montgomery.

Cantata.

Old Time—Jos. Brown,
Dawn—M. Totsick,
Noon—A. Gherrity,
Eventide—M. Walsh,
Midnight—M. Gherrity.
Attendants to Hours.

Old Time went to take a rest; the Hours seeing they were free, call their attendants and select Queens; suddenly Old Time appeared and commanded each Hour to take her own place.

The Bogus School Inspector.

Characters.

Mr. Pointy Teacher—B. Beezer.
Valet to Inspector—T. Shaughnessy.
School Officers—A. Brown.
Colonel Figs, Inspector—J. Brown.
Johnny Stout—Paul Brown:

Colonel Fig had been appointed School Inspector and told to examine a particular school on a certain day. By some mistake he missed the train, but his valet who arrived in time, dressed himself in his master's clothes, and then presented himself as the Inspector. The examination was nearly finished when Col. Fig arrived; he was astonished to find his valet had usurped the rights of Inspector. The teacher pled for the valet and Col. Fig was pacified; he finally gave the pupils a holiday.

New Machine Shop's For Bellefonte.

James Seibert who is one of the best machinest that ever worked in Bellefonte is erecting a building 20x40 near the Pennsylvania freight station. Mr. Seibert proposes fitting up the shops with latest improved machinery and will be able to do most any kind of work. His ability as a machinist is thoroughly known all over the County and his work has always given the best of satisfaction. We feel sure Jim will meet with success, because he has "it" in his head, that is he has the knowledge of a practical machinist and back of that he has the "get up" and "stick to it" nerve. He is being assisted by his son Clair who recently graduated with honors from the High School. Jim we are going to do all we can to boost you along.

An Order Has Been Issued From the Adjutant General OF PENNSYLVANIA

Announcing That The Resignation of Major H. A. Miller of The 5th Reg. N. G. P. Had Been Accepted And That he Was Honorably Discharged,

AN ELECTION HELD JUNE THE 29th

An order has been issued from the office of the adjutant general of the state announcing that the resignation of Major H. A. Miller, of the First battalion, Fifth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, has been accepted and that the major's name had been placed on the list of those who have been honorably discharged. An election of a successor of Major Miller has been ordered, the same to take place at the Logan house, in Altoona, on the afternoon of Saturday June 29th. There are mentioned in connection with the vacancy three officers of the regiment. These are Captain Fee, of Company F. of Indiana; Captain Aiken, of Company G, of Lewistown, and Captain D. M. Caldwell, quartermaster of the regiment. Captain Fee is the senior captain.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD.

Passed off Peacefully and Quietly on Wednesday Evening.

The Board of Education met on Wednesday evening and elected their officers for the ensuing year. The meeting began at 8:15 with D. F. Fortney in the chair those present were Fortney, Heinle, Parker, Quigley, Crisseman, Harrie, Barnhart, and Mingle.

The Secretaries report was read by David F. Fortney and adopted. H. C. Quigley then swore in the newly elected directors, Wm. C. Heinle, Milton Johnson, and James K. Barnhart. Mr. Fortney was then selected temporary president of the board, Mr. Barnhart temporary Secretary

Mr. Crissman was nominated by Mr. Quigley for President of the Board of Education for the ensuing year. Mr. Fortney moved that Mr. Crissman be elected by acclamation the motion was second and carried:

Mr. Parken then nominated Mr. Barnhart for Secretary of the Board, Senator Heinle moved and was seconded by Mr. Quigley that Mr. Barnhart be elected by acclamation.

Mr. Barnhart nominated Mr. Parker for Treasurer of the Board and Mr. Harris nominated Mr. Mingle. The roll was called by the secretary and was a follows:

Mr. Fortney—Mingle.
" Heinle— "
" Quigley—Parker.
" Parker— "
" Harris—Mingle.
" Johnson—Parker.
" Crissman— "

When Mr. Mingle's name was called he moved that Mr. Parker be elected by acclamation, the motion was seconded by Senator Heinle, and was carried.

Mr. Quigley moved that a meeting be held next Monday evening for the election of teachers, fixing the millage announcing the committees and transacting such business as is necessary. The motion was seconded by Mr. Parker and carried. Mr. Crissman announced the Finance Committee as follows: Col. D. F. Fortney, James K. Barnhart, John P. Harris. The meeting then adjourned sine die.

Miss Carrie Lingle Married.

Miss Carrie Lingle who is quite well known in Bellefonte was married Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of her brother Mr. C. M. Lingle at Graceton Pa. The lucky young man was Mr. Robert Powell a wealthy business man of Fort Smith Arkansas after a wedding trip of three weeks they will go to their future home in Arkansas. They will be accompanied to the latter place by the bride's mother and sister Miss Helen who will remain with them for some time.

BEAUTIFUL JUNE WEDDING.

Miss Grace M. Barlett Becomes the Wife of Charles A. Smith.

On Tuesday evening the cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Barlett on Valentine street was the scene of a very happy occasion. It was the giving in marriage of their daughter Miss Grace May to Mr. Charles Albert Smith of Altoona. The wedding was very quiet only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present.

At fifteen minutes after eight the bridal party took their places before the Rev. James B. Stein, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church who used the Methodist ring ceremony and pronounced the happy young couple husband and wife.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a silk net over silk and carried a beautiful bouquet of white lillies. She wore no veil, but a little white rose was fastened in her hair. She is one of the prettiest young ladies in Bellefonte and naturally made a beautiful bride. She is very bright and has a kind, sweet disposition, and has been educated in the duties of a good housekeeper, having received the same from her mother. She was always a great home girl and those are always the kind that make the best wives. For quite awhile she has been one of the efficient clerks in Kline Brothers large department stores in Altoona and is held in high esteem by all her associates in the Railroad City.

Mr. Smith is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as a brakeman in the 12th street yards in Altoona, he is a fine looking young man of high character, sober, industrious and intelligent. He was dressed in the usual conventional black.

Mr. Smith is a Brotherhood man and is highly respected among the railroad men, he has hosts of friends in the Mountain City who will rejoice over him entering the ranks of the Benedicts, and no donbt will show him a royal, warm time when they return from their wedding tour. The bridesmaid was Miss Daisy Wesley one of Altoona's pretty young maidens she was dressed in a beautiful white lawn trimmed in silk lace. The best man was Mr. Fred Davis of Altoona,

The interior of the home was beautifully trimmed with mock orange blossoms and palms, the predominating colors being green and white. In the south parlor where the ceremony was performed an arch of mock orange blossoms was erected, with a back ground of green ferns. The bridal party stood right under the arch of blossoms.

The bride received many beautiful and useful presents such as chinaware, silverware, linens, furniture, full bed room suit and lamps.

A little home already furnished and a beautiful diamond ring were the gifts the groom presented to his wife. That is the kind of a husband to get. After the ceremony a reception and wedding dinner was held and greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mr. Smith is a member of the Presbyterian church in Altoona, of which Dr. Irvin is pastor and takes an active part in the church work. After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at their home on 1st Avenue and 8th street, Altoona. This paper joins in with their many friends to wish them a life full of joy and happiness and may a shadow never cross their path-way.

Mad Dog Scare.

A dog frothing at the mouth and making a peculiar noise was seen on Bishop street on Monday morning. We don't know whether the dog was mad or not at any rate the brute should not be left live to bite any one. Some how or other he got away and wasn't caught. So it is best to keep on the lookout for him. Bellefonte is certainly blessed with its share of curs, and so many that don't seem to have any owners. Only Monday evening several pounds of meat was eaten by one of these tramp dogs that worked his way into the refrigorator at a house on Spring St. It certainly won't be well for Mr. Dog if he visits this home again. It is pretty near time that the dog law is being enforced in Bellefonte.

Big Party at Boalsburg.

On Friday our good friend Frank McFarlane was fifty years old and to properly celebrate the occasion his good wife gave him a surprise party. Just fifty of his country friends gathered at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane a short distance rom the town, and in gay and joyful manner passed away the evening. Excellent refreshments were served that had been prepared by Mrs. McFarlane and some of her friends.

NAVAL LAUNCH RUN DOWN

By An Ocean Tug--Report Was Made Offically On Board Minn.

TUG'S NAME NOT GIVEN

It is However Reported to Have Stopped And Made Seacch For Boat.

SIX MIDSHIPMEM AND SIX SEAMEN

Norfolk, Va., June 13.—It was reported Wednesday that the disaster in Hampton Roads Monday night, which resulted in the sinking of a launch from the United States battleship Minnesota and the drowning of eleven men, including six midshipmen who were returning from the army and navy ball at the Jamestown exposition that night, and five seamen, who made up the crew of the launch, resulted from the Minnesota's launch being run down by a tug and coal barge which the former was towing.

The report, which was stated, had been made officially on board the battleship Minnesota, did not give the name of the tug or the barge. It was said, however, that the tug stopped in the roads immediately following the accident, but finding no trace of the object which had been struck or any sign of life or anything in the water, resumed its course with the coal barge in tow.

The presumption is that the launch, a small craft, sank immediately in the darkness of the story night, the eleven occupants being caught in their canvas covered craft with no possible way of escape and carried to the botton, drowning like rats in a trap.

A Joint Institute.

A joint county institute of Clinton and Centre counties was held at Howard the beginning of June. A goodly numbes of earnest workers were present from both counties. The first session opened at 2 p. m. Mrs. L. H. Fredricks of Lock Haven, Clinton Co. presiding.

After fervent devotional exercises Mrs. A. M. Clees, Pres. of Centre Co. opened the question, "Why belong to the Women's Christian Temperance Union?" Many good reasons were given which were disguised in a very interesting manner by a number of ladies present. Among the advantages derived therefrom was mentioned the fact that the liquor men's associations admit, that they fear defeat from no other source as they do from this organized mother love. The history of the Bellefonte Loyal Temperance Union was given by Mrs. Clees as Miss Annie Lyons was not present.

What reason for "Temperance Light Bearers?" was given by Mrs. Evelyn K. Huston, State Secretary of this branch. Her logical address teemed with interest from start to finish, everyone present saw the necesity of interesting the mothers in their little ones temperance education, and thereby forge the first link of the temperance chain that has already reached around the word. Mrs. Peoples of Lock Haven, Mrs. Hall of Renova and Mrs. Higby of Philipeburg, spoke briefly on the same subject.

"Our Greatest Needs," was assigned to Miss Linding of London, England. The first need was information derived from our National and State papers and the excellent leaflets, etc. Secondly, getting good attendance at the meetings—this could be done by making the meetings so spiritual and interesting that people would love to attend. Medal contests were among the needs. Contest work was then spoken of, by Mrs. Fredricks as the best means of getting people interested and instructed.

Mrs. Furst presented a paper on "Our Literature" which was full of interest. A resolution was passed, protesting against any change in name or plan of our T. L. B. branch, believing it to be the most profitable source of building up our work.

The evening session opened at 7:30 in the M. E. church, Mrs. A. M. Clees presiding. Devotions were led by the pastor Rev. Aller, appropriate music was rendered by the congregation and a solo by Mrs. Quigley of Eaglesville. Mrs. Clees introduced Miss Christian Linling of London, England, who gave one of her convincing timely lectures, just suited to the occasion after which she organized a local union at Howard with twelve active and one honorary members. The people were exceedingly hospitable and the "white ribbon" ladies will look back to this institute as being pleasant as well as profitable.

A WHISTLER STORY.

The Eagle That Was Made to Pose as a Fighting Cock.

Apropos of something Whistler once told a cockfight story so vividly that only a man with a sailor instinct could tell it as well, mimic it so keenly and enjoy it so thoroughly. It was a story of a strange species of the American cock, pictured to the smallest detail so beautifully that one forgot that it was a story.

Some American sailors were at a cockfight in a seaport town in England when one of them remarked to the owner of the champion:

"We have got an American cock on board that can whip any bird here."

"Go fetch 'im on," said the champion. "Chuck 'im in and see. If 'e licks one bird we 'ave plenty more to throw in that can lick hany blawsted Hamerican bird you can fetch 'ere."

"All right. We'll bring one," said the sailors. When they got aboard they rigged up an American eagle. After their own manner, they painted, trimmed, spliced and reefed fore and aft, transforming the eagle to a cock. When ready they went ashore to pit their new American gamecock against all England.

At the pit the sailors chucked in their cock, which looked around for other surprises as he backed close to the wall.

"Now, bring on your birds!" yelled the sailors. A strutting cock was thrown into the pit and was another surprise to the poor dismantled eagle. He backed up closer and closer to the wall, wondering what would happen next. The cock walked three times majestically around the circle, cuffing at his strange opponent, the eagle pitiably abashed and bedrabbled, crouching lower and lower and looking around and above him for an explanation of what it all meant, while the crowd were yelling madly for the English fighter. The eagle made himself smaller and smaller, but at last, finding that he could get back no further and thinking that something was expected of him, and, as the cock dashed at him again, stretched out his long claws and took his opponent by the neck.

Here Whistler ended with an imitation by motions of what the eagle did. He stretched out his arm, shaped his hand like a claw, which by this time looked like a real one, drew it to his mouth and with one bite pulled off the head as he thought an eagle might do it. Then he looked blandly about the room, as the eagle had done, at the astonished crowd and said, "Now bring on your other birds."—Otto Bacher in Century.

TOWNS WITH TROUBLES.

London's trouble is her fog.

Tokyo's trouble is earthquakes. In her worst 200,000 residents were killed.

The mistral is the trouble of Marseilles, an east wind that increases the city's death rate 50 per cent.

Calcutta's trouble is cholera, and the bubonic plague is the trouble of Bombay. Each city pays to her trouble an annual tribute of 9,000 souls.

Bagdad's trouble is the "Bagdad button," a sore that attacks practically every resident and visitor, leaving a button shaped permanent scar.

Madrid's trouble is the solano, a summer wind from the southeast. It is exceedingly hot and is accompanied by blinding, choking clouds of dust, so that notwithstanding a temperature of 105 or 110 degrees all windows must be closed.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Science of Chemistry.

Chemistry did not become a science—in other words, chemistry proper did not exist—until the seventeenth century, and it was as late as the middle of the eighteenth century before it began to amount to much. The old alchemy undoubtedly contained the germs, or at least the possibilities, of the present day chemistry, but beyond this the relationship between the modern science and the ancient delusion is slight indeed. Still, it cannot be denied that it was in the foolish search for the "Philosopher's Stone" and the "Elixir of Life" that men first hit upon the discoveries which were destined to develop into the great science of today.—New York American.

The Sarcastic Cabby.

The London bobby is notorious for overgrown feet and hands. Likewise the London cabby is generally accredited with never being at a loss for a reply. One day a bobby lifted up his hand majestically to halt a cabby, but the latter crowded his horse ahead.

"Didn't you see me raise my 'and?" demanded the bobby.

"I did see the sky darken a moment, but my 'orse was shyin' at your feet," retorted the cabby as he whipped up and went on.—London Graphic.

Nature and Man.

Huxley was once talking to Sir William Gull about the healing power of nature. "Stuff!" said Gull. "Nine times out of ten nature does not want to cure the man. She wants to put him in his coffin."—London Telegraph.

His Explanation.

"Henry," whispered Mrs Smithers, straightening up in bed, "what's that noise in the library?"

"Must be history repeating itself," muttered Henry drowsily. "Go to sleep!"

Not at All Easy.

"Oh, it's easy! Easy as taking candy from a baby."

"Easy, eh? Ever try to take candy from a baby?"—Pittsburg Post.

He that is proud eats up himself.—Shakespeare.

A Testimonial For Veracity.

"It's a moighty foine thing to have a character for truthfulness," remarked O'Grady when he returned home the other evening.

"Indade an' it is that same," agreed Mrs. O'Grady, with an approving nod, as she hauled one child out of the fender and scraped the cinders off his frock. "An' what makes ye say that, Phelim?"

"'Cause me master belaves in me veracity intoirely," was the response of Phelim. He lighted his short pipe and took his accustomed seat on a broken chair near the chimney. "I tould him this morning that I couldn't help being late an' that I had run a moile in a minute an' a half to get there in toime. An' what do ye think he said?"

"Mebbe that ye desarved another sixpence a week."

"Better than that. These are his very words. 'O'Grady,' ses he, 'Oi wud just as soon belave ye if ye sed ye had done it in half a minute.' So ye see what faith he has in me veracity intoirely."—London Answers.

Reading the Face.

Restless eyes denote a deceitful, designing disposition; greenish eyes mean falsehood, malice and a love of scandal; blue eyes tell of tendency to coquetry; black eyes mean a lively, spirited and sometimes deceitful character; eyes with a yellowish, bloodshot white usually betoken strong emotions and hot temper; gray eyes mean dignity and intelligence and brown eyes a tender, true, kind and happy nature. A mouth had better be too large than too small, for a very small, pursed up mouth is seldom significant of good conversational power. Large mouths are more often found in conjunction with liberal dispositions than very small ones. A person with a pointed chin is fanciful, refined in taste and difficult to please. A broad, square chin signifies ardent love, often accompanied by jealousy. A broad, round chin means ardent love, with a steadfastness and purity of affection.

When Did You Oil Your Watch?

When did you oil your watch last? Never? You may remember when you lubricated your sewing machine, typewriter, lawn mower or grindstone—within a year, probably—but your watch you never oiled, that you can remember. Yet in a period of eighteen months the balance wheel turns on its axis 13,996,800,000 times. Expert watchmakers say that a watch should be thoroughly cleaned and oiled every eighteen months. Many persons wear a watch for years, winding it up each night, and never oil it. Watches are instruments of uncertain age; some run indefinitely, keeping accurate time, without need of repairs. As a matter of fact, nothing is so neglected as a small, delicate and useful instrument.—North American.

Blond Indians.

One of the mysteries of Mexico is presented by the Maya Indians, who inhabit the Sierra Madre mountains in the lower part of Sonora. They have fair skins, blue eyes and light hair, and students of ethnology have always been puzzled to account for them. There is a tradition, however, that these Indians are the descendants of the crew and passengers of a Swedish vessel wrecked on the Mexican coast centuries before Columbus discovered the new world. But this tradition is founded on nothing more substantial than a folklore tale current among them that their ancestors came over the big salt water hundreds of moons ago.

A Frog of Peculiar Habits.

South America has a frog of peculiar habits. Dwelling in the virgin forests, at the tops of the highest trees, it chooses as a site for its nursery some hollow stump and then proceeds to line it with resin procured from trees in the neighborhood. This lining serves to catch and hold the rainwater, with which it quickly becomes filled. As soon as this takes place the eggs are laid therein, and here they undergo development into tadpoles. How the resin is collected is a mystery, nor is it yet known how the separate pieces become welded to form the water tight basin necessary to insure the safety of the treasures deposited therein.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, do you open your mouth like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you?

If you are an intelligent thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true honest medicine or known composition, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, rundown, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of practice, are perfectly willing, and in fact, are only too glad to print, as they do, the formula, or list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, narcotics, harmful, or habit-forming drugs, and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famed medicine is advised.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the unqualified recommendation of each of its several ingredients by scores of leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration?

A booklet of ingredients, with numerous authorative profesional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

For the Future.

The secret of happiness is inward. People had good times when there were no friction matches, no brilliantly illuminated streets, no steamboats or railroads, no sewing machines, no postage stamps, no comfortably heated homes, no telegraphs or trolleys. The elements of happiness are not in things, but in human nature itself. But the fairer conditions, the greater opportunities, which the marvelous modern inventions afford to the masses of our humanity should augment our joy and expand our hopes. The most obvious fact of human history is that of progress. The race is following a flying and a growing ideal. It is inspired and saved by hope. Every helpful invention, every improvement of sanitary conditions, every new ray of intellectual and spiritual illumination, every scientific achievement, every amelioration of physical suffering, every new avenue of enjoyment, every victory of righteousness, every faithful deed in lowly and lofty places, increases the splendor and the power of our vision of the future.—Leslie's Weekly.

A Curious Superstition.

Among the superstitions of the Seneca Indians was this most beautiful one: When a young maiden died they imprisoned a young bird until it first began to try its powers of song, and then, loading it with caresses and messages, they loosed its bonds over her grave in the belief that it would not fold its wings nor close its eyes until it had flown to the spirit land and delivered its precious burden of affection to the loved and lost one.

Decay of Laughter In England.

I am perfectly certain that half our ills are due to the fact that we do not laugh enough. A good, sincere smile is something rare in these times, a "laughing face" is scarce, and it is seldom indeed that one hears a good, ringing laugh.—London World.

Neither Still Nor Small.

"When you do something you know is wrong, doesn't a still, small voice keep reminding you of it eternally?"

"A still, small voice! I guess you never met my wife, did you?"—Houston Post.

The Compromise.

Ascum—Have Henpeck and his wife settled their differences about their visiting cards? Newitt—Oh, yes; they've compromised on "Mr. and Mrs. Maria Henpeck."—Philadelphia Press.

Most of us are guilty of sins of omission because they involve less effort than the other kind.

Early Dentistry.

The art of dentistry was practiced among the Egyptians and Etruscans, and there are evidences in mummies and skulls that in very ancient times teeth were filled and efforts were made to supply the loss of natural by artificial teeth. The first writer on the treatment of diseased teeth was Galen. The science was introduced into America by John Greenwood, who established himself in New York in 1788. In 1790 and again in 1795 he carved in ivory an entire set of teeth for General Washington.

Chronic.

"Opposition, opposition; nothing but opposition!"

"What's the matter, dear?"

"My parents objected when I wanted to marry him, and now he kicks because I want a divorce."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Something of That Kind.

"Young man," said the serious gentleman, "did you ever pause and think that each tick of the clock brings you another moment nearer to the end of your existence?"

"I was thinking of something of that kind this very minute," cheerfully replied the youth, "only the idea struck me that each tick brought pay day that much nearer."

A Puzzler.

An old white haired darky living on a plantation, not feeling well, had the doctor pay him a visit. The doctor told him as he was getting old he must eat plenty of chicken and stay out of damp [illegible] sah," said the old [illegible], "how can you expect me to stay in de h[illegible] at night and still get my chickens?"

Will Keep on Kissing.

Sir:—The doctors and scientists have, no doubt, expressed some truth about the transmission of tuberculosis, etc., by the kissing lips. How about the kissing cheeks? Who can name a single case where disease was transmitted in that way? In gospel and Apostolic times there was no little of solution and greeting by kissing, even among the men to say nothing about others expressing their affection in like manner.

I venture to say that the medical fraternities, the scientists and anti kissing leagues, will never succeed in banishing from our world the affectionate custom of kissing. For one, I shall keep right on at it as long as I can kissing my good wife, and at least, all the babies I can on the cheek, according to the Gospel.

Physician Weds Nurse.

Announcement of the wedding of Doctor Edwin W. Robison, of 22 South Eighteenth street, and Miss Florence Evey a nurse in the Childrens Hospital, came as a surprise to their friends. The ceremony was performed on Monday in St. Asaph's Episcopal church, Bala, by Rev. H. B. Wright, the Rector. Miss Mary Curtin and Joseph E. Rhoads were the only witnesses.

Dr. Robison is a stepson of Dr. Roland G. Curtin. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Evey of Bellefonte. They became acquainted at the hospital while Robison was a member of the staff and his bride was one of the nurses.

Miss Robinson visited her parents during the early spring in Bellefonte and while here made many warm friends and acquaintances, who wish her a life full of happiness. Her parents home is on Bishop street opposite the Parochial School.

INSTANT RELIEF—Coughs, Croup, Sore Throat—Brazilian Balm, 50 doses 25c.

The Profanity habit.

In all the catalogue of vices and sins there is nothing so senseless as the habit of swearing. It degrades a man without giving any recompense. A tipsy man may forget for a time his troubles or he may feel briefly a sense of exhilaration preceding the after period of remorse and shame, but the profane man derives no source of pleasure from his profanity. His is the shame without recompense and if he feels no remorse, then so much the greater is his shame.

Profanity is the language of the illiterate and vulgar. Our language is of such vast vocabulary that no educated man need employ profane words to help express his thoughts. One cannot conceive of a man like Roosevelt punctuating with profanity.

We now and again meet a man who is in all other particulars a gentleman and yet who has fallen into the profanity habit to such an extent that the most disgusting oaths slip into his conversation unawares. Such a man is to be pitied, for speech will constantly betray him. The oaths slip out in the presence of ladies and with due embarassment he apologises. Apologises for what? For not being a gentleman.

The oaths slip out in the presence of gentlemen and he forgets to apologise. The profanity habit is so senseless that any intelligent man should be ashamed to acquire it. Omitting entirely the religious aspect of the profanity habit, it indicates a lack of culture and a want of consideration for others inconsistent with gentlemanly conduct. And what doth it profit?

Opera House Burned in Aloona.

Altoona, the seat of fires was visited again this morning by another disastrous fire, this time the Eleventh Avenue Opera House, the large department store of the Imperial Dry Goods Company W. F. Fredericks Piano House, Ebert Building and infact the business centre of the town was wiped out. The loss will reach fully $230,000. This is the third theater that has burned in Altoona inside of a year. The loss of property by fire in the past year in Altoona will run over $1,500,000. It seems as though our enterprising little railroad city is doomed for some reason, and already some are saying that it will be entirely wiped out on account of its wickedness the same as Johnstown was in 1889.

The Vanishing Trick.

Into the grocer's shop walked an ancient lady with a slow and halting tread and carrying on her arm a basket containing a large earthenware pot with a lid. Placing the basket on the counter, she made various purchases, which she put carefully in the pot, and had her bill made out.

"By the way," she said before paying this, "do you mind keeping this pot with the purchases in it until I come back and pay for them, as I have to buy other things some distance off, and it will be more convenient for me to leave the things here till later?"

This request was willingly acceded to, and, lifting the pot carefully out of the basket, the old dame placed it, with an effort, in a corner; then, placing her basket on her arm, left the shop. Hours went by, day ripened into evening, and evening gave way to night, but the old woman did not return. At last the proprietor thought of examining the earthenware pot to see if by any chance it had its owner's address upon it, and great was his astonishment, not untinged with dismay, to find that it possessed no bottom.—London Answers.

Witchcraft In the Nineteenth Century.

Most people believe that witchcraft among civilized people ended when the "Salem witch mania" ran its course and died out in the year 1692. It did as far as America is concerned, except among savages, but in other countries the belief in the superstition did not die until a much later date, even if it can be truly said to be dead now. In France an old beggar was tortured to death as late as 1807 on the charge of being one who "communed with evil spirits," and in Spain a witch was burned in 1808. In 1850 in France a man and his wife tortured a suspected witch to death, and nothing at all was done with them by the criminal courts on account of the lingering belief in sorcery. Four years later a witch was drowned in England, and in 1860 one was burned in Mexico. In 1874, 1879, 1880 and again in 1889 witches were publicly burned in Russia, and even as late as 1890 regular judicial trials of witches were had in Prussia, Poland and Austria-Hungary.

Hoped He Wouldn't Grow.

A well known member of parliament was addressing an agricultural meeting in the south of England and in the course of his remarks expressed the opinion that farmers do not sufficiently vary their crops and make a mistake in always sowing wheat.

One of the audience opposed to him in politics asked him what crops he would recommend.

"Everything in turn," he replied.

"Well," said his interlocutor, "if swedes don't come up, what then?"

"Sow mustard," said the M. P.

"And if mustard doesn't come up, what then?"

And so he went on through a whole list of crops until, the M. P.'s patience being exhausted, he put an end to his questioning amid roars of laughter by saying:

"Oh, sow yourself, and I hope you won't come up."

Circumstantial Evidence.

Chick Bruce was a famous Adirondack guide, who accompanied Grover Cleveland on one or two of his hunting trips in those mountains. Chick left Mr. Cleveland sitting on a log one morning while he went out to drive down a deer should he chance to find one. When he came back he saw his distinguished employer still sitting on the log, but with the muzzle of his gun pointing directly at the presidential chest.

"Here," shouted Chick, "quit that, dod gast ye! Suppose that gun had gone off and you had killed yourself, what would have happened to me? Dern ye, everybody knows I'm a Republican!"—Saturday Evening Post.

A Large Order.

The proprietor of a certain restaurant "leased" the reverse side of his bill of fare to a carriage manufacturer, who prints advertisements thereon. The other day a customer, in a great hurry, ran into the restaurant, sat at a table and was handed a bill wrong side up by the flurried waiter. The customer put on his pince-nez, curled his mustache with his left hand and shouted in a voice of thunder: "Bring me a fly, a laudau, two victorias and a dogcart. Got any funeral cars?" The waiter fled.—London Graphic.

Judgment Reversed.

Schoolteacher—I am sorry to complain, but Johnnie Jones has been very impertinent. Principal—You must be more patient, Miss Howard. Teach the children to respect you as they do me, and we shall have fewer complaints. What did he say? Schoolteacher—He said you were the skinniest old maid alive!—Brooklyn Life.

The Disadvantages of Schools.

"Why have you taken your son out of school without asking permission?"

Father (a grocer) — But they were ruining him. I wish to bring him up to carry on my business, and they were teaching him that there are sixteen ounces in a pound.—Motto Pn Ridere.

A Nice Present.

It is said of a champion mean man that the only present he ever made to his wife was on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, when he gave her four yards of cotton cloth with which to make him a shirt.

Logical Result.

Teacher—What happens when a person's temperature goes down as far as it can go? Tommy—Then he has cold feet.

The world knows nothing of its greatest men.—Van Artevelde.

Let No One Boast.

Nevertheless, let no one boast. Just as every man, though he be the greatest genius, has very definite limitations in some one sphere of knowledge, and thus attests his common origin with the essentially perverse and stupid mass of mankind, so also has every man something in his nature which is positively evil. Even the best—nay, the noblest—character will sometimes surprise us by isolated traits of depravity, as though it were to acknowledge his kinship with the human race, in which villainy—nay, cruelty—is to be found in that degree.—Schopenhauer.

The Whole Show.

When Bubinstein was traveling through the United States upon a concert tour it chanced that Barnum's circus followed exactly the same route chosen by the great Russian. On one occasion when the train was filled with snake charmers, acrobats, clowns and the like the guard, noticing perhaps Rubinstein's remarkable appearance, asked him, "Do you belong to the show?' Turning his leonine head with a savake shake, Rubinstein fiercely growled out, "Sir, I am the show!"

Aids to Humanity.

No women have done more for humanity and for the individual than the old maid reformer and the old maid aunt. There is none to whom we owe a deeper debt of gratitude and none whom we could not better spare, says a writer in the Cosmopolitan, for be sure of this, God sends old maids into the world to do the work that the rest of us leave undone.

Congenial Employment.

The high prize of life, the crowning fortune of man, is to be born to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness, whether it be to make baskets or broadswords or canals or statues or songs.—Emerson.

Able For the Rest.

"William, were you ever whipped at school?" queried the visitor.

"Only by the teacher," was the rather significant reply.—Chicago News.

The population of the world averages 100 women to every 100 men.

Performed a Miracle.

Her Husband (angrily)—I was a fool when I married you.

His Wife—Aren't you a fool still?

"No; I am not."

"Then you should congratulate me upon my success as a reformer."—Spare Moments.

His View of Nature.

Huxley was once talking to Sir William Gull about the healing power of nature. "Stuff!" said Gull. "Nine times out of ten nature does not want to cure the man. She wants to put him in his coffin."

The Soft Answer.

Mrs. Benham—You couldn't look me in the face when you came in last night. Benham—That was because your beauty dazzled me, my dear.—New York Press.

Two Hundred Species of Roses.

There are 200 species of roses in existence, though perhaps not more than fifty clearly defined families. Of these families only two are of American birth. There are thousands of varieties, however, and of these our enterprising rose growers have contributed by far the largest proportion. The eagerly sought black rose is still unproduced, though a New York florist has a dark red one which in some lights has the appearance of black velvet.—Kansas City Journal.

Insulting.

"I'm not going to that female barber shop again. There's a rude girl there, don't you know." "What did she say?" "Why, she looked at my mustawsh and awsked me if I would have it sponged off or rubbed in."

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness seem disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

HIDDEN DANGER.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Bellefonte Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of ediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Bellefonte proof.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246 East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living n Rochester. I thought at first that I had breken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

Down Lovers Lane.

If the sun and moon would tell their secrets, what a wonderful lot of funny things would be told. The weather on Sunday afternoon and evening was simply grand to be out walking, and all along the lonely paths and back streets and roads, you could see the young folks strolling. Out along the road known as "Lovers Lane," the road leading to the Valentine Mansion at the Nittany furnace could be seen boys and girls telling one another how much they thought of the other. They are young and fickle and when they get as old and homely as Francis Speer and the scribe they will begin to think of some thing else. A great many of the young fellows took advantage of the warm weather and went swiming.

The driving was fine and many took advantage of the good roads and drove over to Centre Hall. One hundred and fifty young folks took supper at the Old Fort hotel. Guests were there from all over the country.

"The Honor of a Cowboy."

The Milesburg Fire Company will produce the beautiful drama entitled, "The Honor of a Cowboy." The young folks that are in the play are getting along splendidly with the rehearsels and expect to give the Milesburg people a big surprise. The play will be produced Friday evening June 28. We feel sure that you will be pleased if you attend. For the Fire Company.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A Lesson In Health

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest days work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he could n't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

ECKENROTH BRO.

The great and growing popularity of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical is due both to its scientific compounding and to the actual medicinal value of its ingredients. The publication of the names of the ingredients on the wrapper of every bottle sold, gives full assurance of its non-alcoholic character and removes all objection to the use of an unknown or secret remedy. It is not a patient medicine nor a secret one either. This fact puts it in a class all by itself, bearing as it does upon every bottle wrapper The Badge of Honesty, in the full list of its ingredients. Many years of active practice convinced Dr. Pierce of the value of many native roots in medicinal agents and he went to great expense, both in time and in money to perfect his own peculiar processes for rendering them both efficient and safe for tonic, alterative and rebuilding agents.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" cures weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver and biliousness, ulceration of stomach and bowels and all catarrhal affections no matter what parts or organs may be effected with it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the orginal little liver pills, first put up 40 years ago. They regulate and invigorate, stomach, liver and bowels. Much imitated but never equaled. Sugar-coated and easy to take as candy. One to three a dose.

Keep the Balance Up.

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength and endurance.

—Everybody is talking about JAP-A-LAC. Folks who have tried it say it is the best floor and furniture finish they ever saw. It can be obtained at Miller Brothers.

EARLE C. TUTEN.

16th Annual Convention.

Christianity is not considered so much a doctrine as a form of life now adays. Progmatical theology has much study today. It has nothing to do with doctrines no matter how sweet they may be if they do not make a man strive to raise a man up to God. The true idea of the Bible is not that is the product of God in man. Somethings in the book you must live into to be able to preach. The Gospel becomes subjective before it becomes objective. A man must come to the Lord before he can understand the great theories and products of the Gospel. The Bible is recognized as an incarnation before it becomes an epistle.

The life of the apostle and his epistles should be compared, and harmonized to find the effect of the writings on the life. Dr. Felt spoke on "The Relation of the Young People and Juniors to Mission Study." He said "The beginning of its training for the work of the future must begin with our boys and girls now. He recommended a number of books and helpful matter to deal with the children.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

In the afternoon Rev. M. C. Piper of Milesburg, led the devotional exercises. The congregation sang "Loving Kindness" and "Glory to His Name." Mr. Piper read for scripture lesson 1 Cor. 12:1-31 and led in prayer. The convention sang "Hear and Answer Prayer."

The committee on nominations reported and the election was held. During interval between election and report, the congregation sang "It just suits me" and the Rev. Mr. Platts sang a solo.

The Rev. F. Watson Hannon who was to conduct conference on personal evangelism failed on account of delayed trains to arrive in time. The time was occupied by the president with an appeal for personal evangelism and a spiritualization of the Leagues. He said in substance that the League has been hiding in the organization. We need to get out and work for souls. If all organization does nothing it had better die for it consumes too much effort to keep it going to no purpose.

Presiding Elder Connor followed. He told of the plans in the conference for 10000 convertions which makes our part 2000. He expressed his plan for the district to bring people out to personal evangelism spurring up or scolding will not accomplish this but only the spirit of God The revival activity of the church is never manifest nor men convicted of sin unless the Spirit dwells in the heart of the believer. The session closed with a quiet hour.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President—Rev. J. McK Reiley, of Clearfield.

1 Vice-pres.—Rev. E. A. Pyles, Bellwood.

2 Vice-Pres.—Miss Frances Conner, Altoona.

3 Vice-Pres.—Miss Edna Bair, Philipsburg.

4 Vice-Pres.—Miss Esther Gray, Stormstown.

Recording Sec'y—Miss Elizabeth Smith Bellefonte.

Corresponding Sec'y—Rev. J. E. Dunning, Osceola.

Treasurer—Mr. Sneath, Altoona.

Junior League Sup't—Miss Mary Buck, Unionville.

FRIDAY EVENING.

The song service in the evening were again under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Platts. The audience sang heartily the "Call for Reapers," "Throw Out the Life Line," "We shall Stand Before the King," and "I love to Tell the story." The Rev. J. J. Resh of Mill Hall, conducted devotional services reading the 24th Psalm and John 15 in part afterward leading in prayer. Miss Ella Twitmire rendered a selection much appreciated by the audience.

Dr. F. Watson Hannon, pastor of Brushwick Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church Brooklyn, was introduced and spoke in substance: 90 per cent of the accessions to our churches today are from the Sunday School. 60 per cent of all who enter our Sunday Schools leave them unsaved. The business is to save these. We want to get our commission. We have for some time been putting the obligation of work on the minister, We must get back to period of hand to hand effort for the winning of souls, our commission is to make disciples. There is an age when we can, if adroit, get young folks committed to anything. We ought to see them saved but should not drop them there but put them into service. We should never separate the promise, "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is Come upon you" and "Ye shall be witnesses." The missionary department is really the department of vision.

As to gratifications, in Acts 6, we find an example in the evangelist Philip a lay man. It shows what God can do with an ordinary man. He was a man of good report.

If a man comes from the multitude he must come through the disciples who stand between the Lord and the multitude. The Lord takes our poor wafers blesses and enlarges them and gives them back to us for the the multitude as Christ did with the fishes and loaves. A man must be a clean man if he is to influence men. Must be a man with wisdom. It needs especial care to deal with souls. It is only God given gumption sanctified with Gods spirit that will make us deal wisely with souls. A man must have faith in his business. A man must have confidence in his business and must be enthusiastic.

We must keep ourselves open to leading of spirit. But in order not to misinterpret and mistake other things for spirits leading you must be submitted to God all the time. Leading of spirit may often make you misuse and misinterpret things.

People try to switch you away from their own lack of salvation to their righteous ancestors. The only way to get people to accept Christ is to get them to see how much better salvation is than the world.

The address was very forceful and stirred the whole audience. The address closed with prayer by the President. The committee on resolutions reported and the report was unanimously adopted. They incorporated thanks to the speakers, Dr. Platts, and the people of Bellefonte for their hospitality.

Coleville vs. Bellefonte.

One of the most exciting and interesting games of base ball played in a long time was on Monday evening when the famous "Colevilleites" tackled an aggregation from Bellefonte called the "Crescents." It being a twilight game it was necessary for the boys to get together and by golly they did. The Cresent team wore magnificent suits of gray material that looked like sheep skin, while the Coleville boys who had worked hard all day, some at the quarries and some at the furnace were attired in their working garments. That didn't cut any ice, they could play ball and they did play, and come very near putting the cleaner on the town boys. With a little bit of practice they could put up a pretty stiff game. Curly Smith of the Coleville team went up to the bat and knocked a a home run. Crabbie Gorden of the Bellefonters made a dandy three bagger. The game passed off peacefully, no ugly words said at all, and no blood shed, but oh my the bad looks some of them gave.

The Cresent team with a little practice will be a credit to Bellefonte and the boys expect to buck up against some pretty strong teams during the summer. It is very likely they will play Milheim on the 4th of July. Millheim is considered the strongest team down Penns Valley but if our boys spruce up a little bit they can put the cleaner on them. The Coleville boys are also right there with the goods and the game they played Monday evening they need not feel ashamed of even if they were beaten. They expect to hold a festival on Saturday evening at Coleville on the Chapel lawn and hope to take in enough money to buy uniforms and a complete out fit. The boys should be patronized Saturday and given a lift. It will be just a pleasant walk from town. They will sell ice cream, cake, candy and peanuts and soft drinks. A band of music will be present to make the affair all the more delightful. Oh we forgot to say the score was 7—5 in favor of the Cresents.

Monday morning Rev. James Hughes, Prof. James R. Hughes and a number of ladies left on the 9 o'clock train for the Snow Shoe Mountains where they will camp for a week or ten days. They took bedding and cots and full camping paraphanalia and expect to fish and have a royal good time.

CHILDRENS DAY IN BELLEFONTE.

The Reformed, United Brethren and Presbyterian all Celebrate the Occasion.

Sunday was an ideal Children's Day, and three of the churches in the town celebrated on that day. The Reformed church was beautifully decorated with fragrant June blossoms and the children looked so pretty in their little white dresses. To hear the little ones get up and sing God's praises and tell the old story of his love to man kind is certainly a treat.

The Presbyterian church was also beautifully decorated for the occasion and the youngsters were all in their glory when on the pulpit singing and reciting.

The United Brethren church was crowded to the doars in the evening and many people turned away. The church was a bower of wild flowers and ferns, with the stars and stripes as a background. The little girls and boys did fine and were trained exceptionally well by their teachers.

The program was as follows.

The July Woman's Home Companion

A novel by Anthony Hope is an event in literature. The three most popular writers of fiction in English are Hall Caine, Marion Crawford and Anthony Hope, and many, many thousands of readers who recall "The Prisoner of Zenda" and 'The Dolly Dialogues" believe that Hope is not the least of the triumvir. Anthony Hope's latest story, "Helena's Path," begins serially in Woman's Home Companion for July. It is most interesting, and thoroughly wholesome, and embodies all the delightful romance of the Zenda stories. The July Woman's Home Companion is unusually strong in fiction, there being in addition to the Anthony Hope serial, short stories by Owen Oliver, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Jean Webster and Robert C. V. Meyers, also a two-part story by Herbert D. Ward. Dr. E. E. Hale writes of the pleasures of outdoor life in his monthly editorial page, and Charlotte Perkins Gilman describes the domestic progress of women. Other special articles are contributed by Samuel Armstrong Hamilton, "When the Garden Looks Shabby," and A. G. Richardson, who gives plans and instructions for building a suberban cottage for $1,700. Grace Margaret Gould, the foremost writer of fashion topics in this country, contributes several pages which undoubtly will prove of deep interest to the femine readers. In addition there are departments conducted by the National Child Labor Committee Margaret E. Sangster, Sam Loyd, Anna Steese Richardson, Evelyn Parsons, Dan Beard and "Aunt Janet" Porter.

Business Is On The Boom

Uncle Sam is now offering greater inducements to young men than ever before in the history of the republic, for young men to enlist in the army, it not only furnishes substantial imployment but a man is taken care of, he is well fed, clothed, a nice bed to sleep in, medical attendance when sick and his pay every month, he gets paid for three hundred and sixty-five days in a year. There is also another consideration when he becomes old and unable to work he gets a comfortable pension, which every old man needs.

This busy bustling world holds out its hands to all and asks no questions, and the boy with solid sober thought and persistent effort goes steadily on step by step to high position, while others fail.

There were two young men came over the other day from Clearfield Co., and applied at the Recruiting office in the Criders Exchange Building, they stated that they had been digging coal since they were nine years of age, and all that they had to show for it was their clothing which they had on their backs.

Their names were John Chegas and John Pintus, they were accepted for enlistment Infantry arm of the United States Army, and they departed last evening for New York, City., where they will be decorated with the uniform of the service, they were fine young men and we predict for them a bright future.

Stockholders' Inspector Reports

ON SPLENDID PROGRESS OF INTERNATIONAL LUMBER & DEVELOPMENT CO.

Once a year the stockholders of this company elect one of number to visit their property and make a thorough inspection. Dr. Every van Slyke, of New York, the representative choeen this year, has just returned, enthusiastic over the development and wonderful resources of the plantation. Dr. van Slyke's opinion may be judged by the conclusion of his report to the stockholders, in which he says:

> I am not only ready to confirm all that the first Inspector has said, but also declare that the literature of the Company not only has not overdrawn the picture but could not if it desired put the whole truth before the public. The proposition is too great. Their assured dividends are beyond peradventure. Mahogany, cedar and the many other varieties of hard woods now growing on the Company's property would alone pay these dividends for years to come, leaving the logwood, wild rubber trees, chicle (chewing gum) and fruit assets out of the reckening. With the great plantings of henequen to come up in a few years there will be an increase of dividends that will be a suprise.

> New York, June 3d, 1907. EVERT VAN SLYKE.

Dr. van Slyke's complete report is a large booklet handsomely illustrated with photographs taken by members of his party. Sent free to any address—write at once.

Dr. van Slyke's statements are supportyd by the verdict of several other stockholders who returnod on May 25th of this year from a visit to the plantation, made at their own expense. Let us send you the statements of these men, whose personal observation leaves them not only satisfied but delighted with the prospects of their investment.

Ministers will Picnic.

On Tuesday June 25th the Ministerial Association of Bellefonte will hold their annual picnic at Hecla Park. The ministers all over the county are invited to gather at this pleasant picnic resort and enjoy the day with the Bellefonte gentlemen. The dinner will be held at the Nittany Club House and will be one of the finest ever prepared by the good people in charge. Of course "chicken" will be included in the bill of fare. The parsons all over the County will be given written invitation to attend. Of course this being a ministers picnic don't exclude out-siders from attending, and we know any one who wishes to go will be cordially welcomed. The train will leave the Central station at 8 o'clock returning in the evening shortly after 5 o'clock. Tuesday June 25th.

A Composition on a Horse was a sentence given to a scholar at Coleville and one evening the lads father found him in the stable with his slate and pencile in his hand astride one of the horses why, sir he exclaimed what are you doing? Writing a composition was the reply, well why don't you write it in the house asked the father. Because answered the little fellow the teacher told me to write a composition on a horse.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

He had just hitched up his horses and plowed one roe of corn when Sarah yelled out to unhitch and come in and hook up in the spring wagon that she wanted to go to town to get a box of matches, of course I could do nothing more than obey, as I am of such a generous nature anyway I wanted to get some Hardware at Olewine's and I said one trip would do it would be killing one bird with two stones. Ithen told Sarah that there was a big surprise party in town Wednesday night and we would just stay for that to, she said now Jones don't be hide bound but get a present for that lady who the surprise is for, well what will I get, then she run over a list of stuff as long as a clothes line like a menu at a hotel, I did not know one from tother, I said how would a dozen clothes pins do no she said she used more hat pins so we put our money together and got a ten cent hat pin. Sally Stoner from Salona was going too, he come up to take Wm. McClellen's place at the Central station for a few weeks, he says there is the prettiest girls in town he ever saw, and he has traveled a good bit in his time, there was another young man by the name of Hastings Gates was also invited but when his girl refused to go he staid at home and used that as an excuse same people can easy find an excuse, I know a boy that would not go because he was afraid he would not get enough to eat, this excuse business reminds me of a little thing that happened in Sunday School up at Rock farms? Lloyd Stover told me that queer reasons are sometimes given for the knowledge that others possess. "Who made you" inquired a teacher of a big lubberly boy of fourteen who had lately joined the class. "I don't know," "Don't Know, you ought to be ashamed of yourself; why there's little Willie Benner he can tell I dare say, and he is only three years old, Come here Willie, who made you?" "Dod," lisped the child. "There," said the teacher triumphantly, I knew he would remember." "Well, he oughter, said the over grown boy, 'taint but a little while since he was made." Now I know all about this surprise party and have asked a good many to go as it will be a great surprise if the girls don't talk to much and let the cat out of the bag.

Sally Stoner says as soon as he is through at Bellefonte he expects to be appointed missionary at Hecla Park.

Say do you know there was three girls from Potter—Hoy hardware Co's store of said something awful while out driving a day or two ago they passed a field of corn and it was "shocked."

Wm. Miller hauls more live stock to the Central station than any other farmer up in these diggens.

Say do you know there is a tannel sight of drinking right in your town. A young man come to me and wanted to sell a four dollar pair of shoes for 25cents, just to get some booze then I met another man and I said why don't you quit drinking, but Mr. W—— said because I won't. But why won't you, said I, well just because I won't. Well said I Mr. W—— you remind me very much of a dutchman who had a hen, and he said to a friend: I vants dot hen to set, und she vont set, she hops off dose eggs und runs avay, den I makes a leetle pox, shust so long von vay und shust so long tudder vay, und I pute dose eggs in dot pox, und snubs her dis vay und pot vay, to let her know yet I means und says, "now set?" But so soon as I turne mine pack, avay goes dot hen; und den I catch her von, two, three, leven dimes, und knocks her dis vay und dat, efery time, und say, now sit dere? But I vinde I could do nothing mit her. So I gets a leetle lid to dot pox, und says, "now Edinke I've got you; and I pute dose eggs in dot box, und chame dot hen town, und I say Hurrah! A leetle vile afterwords I goes to see how she gets on und I lifts up von corner of dot lid, and I shust looks in, oh my goodness dere vas dot ole hen "shust a sitting standing up."

A Valuable Colt Poisoned.

A valuable colt belonging to Irvin G. Gray, of Stormstown, died last Saturday morning and every indication is that the animal was deliberately poisoned by somebody. The colt took sick on Friday and Dr. Jones of this place was sent for. He went up as soon as possible and though he worked with the animal most all night he could do nothing for it and it died Saturday morning. Every symptom and indication was that the animal was poisoned and the tongue and stomach were removed and sent to the state veterinarian for analysis. Other evidence in support of the poisoning theory is that one calf and a pig died in identically the same way as the colt did.

The loss is quite a heavy one to Mr. Gray as the colt was a thoroughbred, being a filly of the well known mare Cora Belle. It is said that he had refused several offers of one thousand dollars for the colt, which was only eighteen months old, he holding it at fifteen hundred dollars. Should the analysis prove that the stock was poisoned no effort should be spared to unearth the villain who did the deed and have him punished accordingly.

Pelvic Diseases in Men.

Many an invalid is dragging out a miserable existence with catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the bladder, or both.

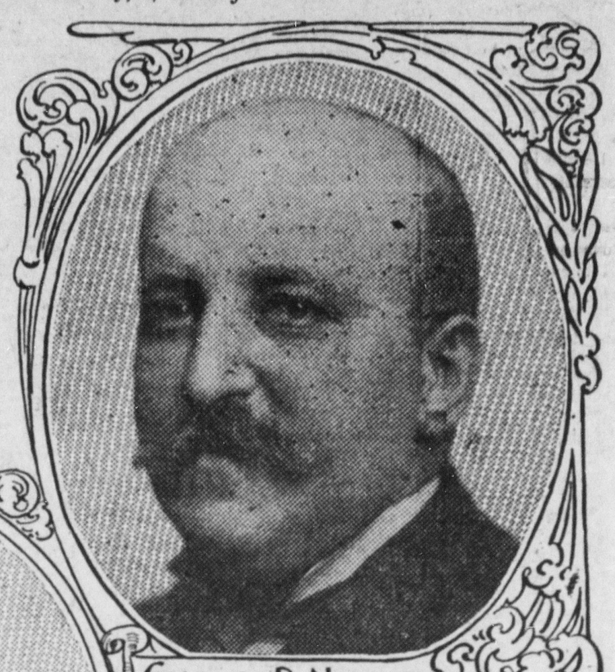
There is no disease equal to catarrh of the bladder in producing complete wretchedness, absolute despair, haggard misery and stubborn weakness.

An army of this sort of victims have one by one discovered that Peruna could be relied upon to relieve such cases.

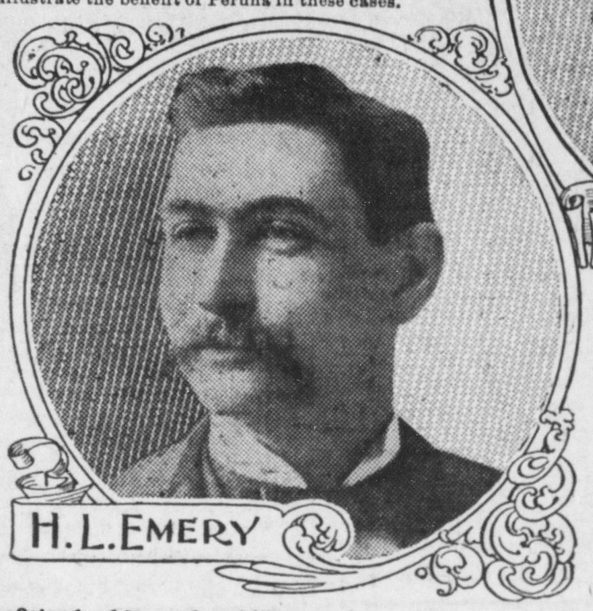
One man tells another man, and in this way the news spreads until in all parts of the country are to be found men who have been permanently liberated from the thraldom of catarrh of the bladder by a course of Peruna.

Many cases of catarrh of the stomach, kidneys and other abdominal organs have reported themselves as cured.

We give below two prominent testimonials which illustrate the benefit of Peruna in these cases.



CHARLES B. NEWHOF



H. L. EMERY

Catarrh of the Bladder.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced age. I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."

Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys.

Mr. H. L. Emory, Vice Chancellor and Master of Arms, K. P.'s, of Omaha, Neb., writes from 205 North Sixteenth street, the following words of praise for Peruna as a tonic. He says:

It is with pleasure I recommend Peruna as a tonic of unusual merit. A large number of prominent members of the different orders with which I have been connected have been cured by the use of Peruna in cases of catarrh of the stomach and head; also in kidney complaints and weakness of the pelvic organs.

"Peruna tones up the system, aids digestion, induces sleep, and is well worthy the confidence of sufferers of the above complaints."

Mr. David L. Jaycox, Chaplain Clarinda I. O. G. T. and Chaplain G. A. R., 865 Broadway, Oakland, Cal., writes:

"I am an old war veteran. I contracted severe bladder and kidney trouble. I spent hundreds of dollars and consulted a host of doctors, but neither did me any good.

"Finally some of my comrades who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it. I at once bought a bottle, and found it helped me so much that I kept using it for nearly four months.

"Peruna has proven the best medicine I ever used. My pains are gone and I believe myself to be cured. I feel well, and would not be without a bottle in time of need for ten times its cost."

Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, Treasurer Knights of Industrial Freedom, also a well known writer and lecturer, writes from 11 South Nicholas St., Chicago, Ill., as follows:

"I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing, with severe twitches and slow exhaustive aches. Urine was highly colored and passed with great irregularity. I knew this must be inflammation of the bladder.

"Having read of Peruna I decided to try it. I found relief from the pain within ten days. Frightful Runaway.

On Sunday afternoon Sheriff Kline had just taken a lady to his home from the train and was on his way to the barn when he stopped to water his horses at the fountain in front of the Court House. He had taken the bite out of the horses mouths so they could drink, when something frightened them and they started down High street, when in front of the Benner residence they separated, the tongue of the carriage struck a tree. The one horse remained on the pavement and the other on the road. They were both caught before they went very far. But the people certainly did scramble in off their porches along the line of march. The bed of the buggy was badly done up. The harness was busted a good bit also the wheels. The horses were not hurt

A Methodist Rooster-

A few weeks ago when Rev. James B. Stine was telling his good people of the many noble and uplifting characteristic there was in the Methodist religion, and every time he would bring out a strong point in favor of the church a Presbyterian rooster belonging to Rev. J. Allison Platts would crow, in other words was saying 'Amen to what Rev. Stine was telling. Now this rooster is in the habit of sitting right under the pulpit window and crowing for the Methodist people. Now if Dr. Platts can't teach his rooster any better than to crow for the Methodist people he had better lock him up in the barn.

HENRY KLINE,
Sheriff's Office, June 3rd 1907. Sheriff.

The Owner and the Visitor.

His house, the first he had ever owned, being nearly finished, the Flatbush man went forth one fine afternoon to inspect it. As he entered the front door he observed a well dressed man standing within, apparently admiring the beauties of construction and decoration. In an instant the pride of the owner swelled within him. Here was where he would make the visitor verdant with envy and, incidentally, intercept a few bouquets for himself. Stepping up to the stranger, he remarked:

"It's a beautiful house, isn't it? It's worth every cent of the investment and a great deal more."

"You are right," replied the stranger. "You are, I suppose"—

"Yes. I'm the owner," interrupted the other, "and just let me tell you that there are not many men round here who own as fine a house as this."

"I quite believe you," serenely answered the visitor. "I'm the man, you see, who holds the first mortgage on it."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The First Woman Whip.

Who was the first "femme cochere?" To the Princess de Metternich, a lady of quality in the fullest meaning of the word, who flourished under the second empire, this honor must be accorded, says the London Chronicle. For in the days when the woman whip was a very rare spectacle indeed this dauntless dame was frequently to be seen driving her phaeton through Paris. One day two facetious youths took it into their heads to signal to her. "Pst, cochere!" The princess entered into the spirit of the joke. She drew up. "By the hour," said the two, seating themselves. "Where?" "Bois de Boulogne." She whipped up without another word and drove off to the Bois. After a silent tour of something over an hour the merry twain began to tire and asked to be put down. "Very good, citizens," said the "cochere," depositing them and holding out her hand. "My fare is 300 francs per hour for my poor." In the event the laugh proved to be on her side.

Rickshaws and Dandies.

In the mountain districts of India the principal vehicles of passenger conveyance are the rickshaw and the dandy, with which Rudyard Kipling has made us familiar. The rickshaw is pushed and pulled through the streets and on the roads leading out into the country by four coolies, and the dandy is carried on the shoulders of four and sometimes six coolies. Saddle ponies are also used to some extent, but most of the inhabitants and quite all visitors use the rickshaw and dandy. The latter is constructed on the plan of a sleigh box, but longer. A pole is attached fore and aft, which is long enough to give a springy motion when the coolies are walking and trotting. A crosspiece rests on the shoulders of the coolies and is shifted now and then from one shoulder to the other for rest. By the command of the cooly in charge this shift is made simultaneously.

Castle Garden.

Castle Garden was built by the United States in 1807 from the plans of Lieutenant Colonel Jonathan Williams, C. E., and was called Fort Clinton. In 1822 it was ceded to New York city. In 1824 it became a place of amusement and about 1826 got the name of Castle Garden. In 1845 there were Ethiopian minstrels there, in 1847-49 theatrical companies played there, and in 1850 Jenny Lind sang there. In 1855 it was closed as a place of amusement, and the commissioners of immigration took it as an immigrant depot. In 1870 it suffered from fire, and on July 9, 1876, it was burned to the ground. It was rebuilt at once. In 1892 the depot was moved to Ellis island, and Castle Garden reverted to the city, which in 1896 opened an aquarium there.

A Well Meant Suggestion.

At an "at home" given by a Yorkshire gentleman's wife an outside manservant had to do duty for a butler. The man was astonished at the thin slices of bread and butter with which he served his mistress' guests. As he was serving an ancient dowager for the fourth time he said to her in a voice that was meant for a whisper, but which was audible to the whole room, "If yer slaps three or four slices together, mum, maybe yer can get a bite."—London Telegraph.

A Lesson in Ornithology.

A gentleman who rather overvalued himself, looking at a case of birds, said to an ornithologist who was with him, "What is that bird?"

"That," said the other, "is a magpie."

"It's not my idea of a magpie," was the rejoinder.

"Perhaps not," replied his friend, "but it's God's idea of a magpie."—House Beautiful.

Quickly Supplied.

There have been many strange things in English history. One of the most curious was recently mentioned by a little schoolgirl.

"The hydra," said this much informed young person, "was married to Henry the Eighth. When he cut her head off, another one sprang right up."

She Could See For Herself.

Dad Murphy's Brevity.

Old Dad Murphy, as he was affectionately known to the boys on the road, was a conductor on a trunk line transporting large shipments of live stock from the west. Dad had been in the service so long that the rules of railroading had become second nature to him, and the result of the superintendent's frequent orders to the trainmen to answer with military brevity all questions and messages, especially those by telegraph, to relieve the burden on the wires had reduced Dad to habitually short, concise replies, even to his conversation. On a baking hot July day, when not a breath of air was stirring and the sun beat on the car roofs till the pitch pulled the soles off the brakeman's shoes, Dad in looking over the train discovered that eight hogs had succumbed to the heat. When passing the next telegraph station he threw off a message to the superintendent:

Burhans, Supt.—Eight hogs dead acc't heat, advise. MURPHY, No. 78.

At the second telegraph office he received his answer:

Murphy, Condr. 78.—What is the present condition of the hogs? Ans. qk.
BURHANS.

Dad grunted, shifted his quid of fine cut and wrote as follows:

Burhans, Supt.—Hogs still dead.
MURPHY, 78

What He Lost.

A traveling man was leaning against the counter in the hotel gazing disconsolately at the floor.

"Lose something?" queried the hotel clerk.

A nod of the head answered.

"Was it very valuable?"

Twice with the nod.

"Sure you had it when you came in here?"

A third nod. His face was growing wistful.

"You should have put it in the safe."

"Could not have done that very well."

His voice quivered.

The clerk stretched his neck and gasped, "Why, what was it?"

"It was," the traveling man began, but he choked—"it was—my job."

"Oh, pardon me a minute, the phone is ringing." And the clerk tiptoed softly away. A dismal stillness reigned.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Onion as a Disinfectant.

There is, writes a London correspondent, a stratum of common sense in the advice given by a north country teacher to her scholars, "If you have cholera or scarlet fever in the house, put some onions under the bed and they will sweep away all disease," for the onion proved its virtue in a remarkable way years ago, when cholera raged throughout London. It was noticed with surprise that one of the most insanitary districts—Saffron Hill and its neighborhood—was almost exempt from the visitation. The majority of the inhabitants being Italians were great onion eaters, and strings of this vegetable were found suspended from the ceiling in nearly every room. The medical officer of health concluded that the onion, among its many virtues, contains a powerful antidote against cholera morbus and possibly other diseases.

Hugo and Verdi.

Verdi labored long before he persuaded Victor Hugo, who was vexed that the tragic beauties of his "Le Roi S'Amuse" had been turned into operatic effects, to attend a performance of "Rigoletto." He succeeded at length, and Hugo sat in the box with the composer and listened to the opera. But not a word did he speak. Verdi's impatience got the better of him, and he asked:

"Well, what say you—about the quartet, for instance?"

"Show me a way in which four persons can be permitted to speak simultaneously," replied the poet, "and I will write something more beautiful than your quartet."

How a Road in Ireland Was Made.

The way in which the Irish imagination accounts for the curious notch in the Devil's Bit mountain, Tipperary, is indicated in its very name. But there are two versions of the legend. According to one, it is said that Nickie Ben, just to try how sharp his teeth were, bit a piece off the upper edge; but, finding it rather too hard even for his digestion, he threw it up at Cashel, in the same county, where it has remained ever since. In confirmation of the story it is gravely asserted that the rock of Cashel would exactly fit into the gap left in the aforesaid mountain. In London Notes and Queries the tale is told as follows: "In the Barnane mountains, near Templemore, Ireland, there is a large dent or hollow, visible at the distance of twenty miles and known by the name of the 'Devil's Bit.' There is a foolish tradition that the devil was obliged by one of the saints to make a road for his reverence across an extensive bog in the neighborhood, and so, taking a piece of the mountain in his mouth, he strode over the bog and deposited a road behind him!"

"T. B. A.'s Poem."

Thomas Bailey Aldrich was fond of retelling that anecdote of his own boyish daring which appears in his "Ponkapog Papers," to the effect that upon first entering James T. Fields' office in the Old Corner Bookstore his eyes fell upon that kindly editor and publisher's memorandum book, open upon the table. Mr. Fields was absent for the moment, and the youthful poet could not help noticing the impressive list of agenda: "Don't forget to mail R. W. E. his contract," "Don't forget O. W. H.'s proofs," etc., whereupon the "young Milton," who certainly deserved to succeed in his profession, wrote upon the memorandum book, "Don't forget to accept T. B. A.'s poem," and disappeared. The poem was accepted, paid for and, truest kindness of all, as Mr. Aldrich asserted, was never printed. But the resourceful youth never lost his deferential attitude toward the bearers of those famous initialed names that had once preceded his own.—Atlantic.

Spoke Too Soon.

The other day a stranger thus addressed a passenger coming out of the Union station:

"You will excuse me, sir, but isn't this"—

The passenger, without waiting for the other to finish, responded:

"Your umbrella? Well, I presume it is, sir. You will allow me to explain that I picked it up on coming out of the train just now. I have great pleasure in restoring it to the rightful owner."

The stranger expressed his thanks and quickly made off.

A few minutes later the same stranger, with a brand new umbrella tucked carefully under his arm, asked another individual the same question he had intended to ask the man who handed him the umbrella.

"You will excuse me, sir, but isn't this the nearest way to Fifth avenue?"—Kansas City Independent.

"The Almighty Dollar."

A recent headline, "Rule of the Dollar," has suggested the inquiry, Who originated the familiar phrase "the almighty dollar?" It was Washington Irving in "The Creole Village," which he published in 1837. The phrase became so popular and excited so much controversy in consequence of a doubt whether the adjective was irreverent that its author had to explain eighteen years later that he had intended "no irreverence, even to the dollar, which he is well aware is becoming daily more and more an object of worship." "Dollar" is certainly one of the world's great words now, and it is difficult to realize that it only means "valleyer," the "thaler" having been named after the Joachimsthal, in Bohemia, in whose valley it was first coined in the sixteenth century.—London Chronicle.

Suicide as Experiment.

A wealthy young man named Leandro Improta after taking refreshment at a cafe in Naples called for pen and ink and wrote a number of notes and letters. He then quietly took out a small revolver and shot himself in the breast. One of the letters found in his pocket runs:

To the Curious Public—In this century it is impossible voluntarily to leave this world without great efforts being made on the part of newspapers and curious people to discover the cause of the deed. In my case I wished to study metempsychosis at close quarters. Is that not a fine idea? So much has been written on the subject, and it pleases me to discover instead of talking. So I determined to die and see whether I shall be reborn in the form of some animal. It would be delightful to return to this world as a lion or a rat. This is why I wanted to die. ADDIO.

Spoiled.

"Publishers insist on spoiling a great many manuscripts, don't they?" said the literary young woman.

"Undoubtedly," answered the bookseller. "A lot of 'em look a heap better typewritten and tied up with a ribbon than they do in print."—Washington Star.

All That Saved Him.

"Yes, sir, he was obliged to go in the snake country, so he took a gallon of Georgia corn along with him."

"And how did he make out?"

"Splendid! Got so full and wabbled so the snakes missed him every time they struck at him!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Made Him Hop.

Hiram Hardapple — What made Grandpap Wheatly jump ten feet and forget his rheumatics when the circus parade passed? Was he afraid of the elephants?

Zeke Crawfoot—No. He heard the steam calliope and thought it was one of those automobiles with the newfangled whistles.—Chicago News.

Human Nature.

"Why are guests so habitually discontented?" asked the landlord.

"They're not really discontented," answered the clerk. "They merely want to convey a favorable impression about what they are used to at home."—Washington Star.

The Hymn He Didn't Want.

A young man who was to be married in church to a Miss Way, after a courtship of four years, privately requested the choir not to open the service by singing, "This is the Way I long have sought."

DICE WENT OVERBOARD.

How a Regiment of Crap Shooters Was Converted at Sea.

Five hundred pairs of dice are lying on the bottom of the Atlantic ocean somewhere off the east coast of the United States unless the fishes swallowed them and carried them away. The spotted cubes were thrown overboard by the negroes of the Twenty-third Kansas regiment during a violent storm at sea, the sacrifice having been prompted by penitence. It was while the negro regiment was on board the ship Vigilancia en route to Cuba in September, 1898, that a storm, says the Kansas City Star, converted a score of boisterous crap games into a fervent religious meeting.

The Twenty-third Kansas went from Topeka to New York city and from there sailed for Cuba. There was no sleep on board the Vigilancia the first night out. It is said that practically all of the negroes who were not prostrated with seasickness were shooting craps. The scene is described as one of mingled suffering and excitement. The distressed pleaded for quiet and rest, but were unheeded by the noisy gamblers.

Above the cries and moans of the suffering such language as this could be heard in different parts of the vessel:

"It's 'leven, an' I know it." "Shoot de money." "Didn't I get a coon?" "Little Dick."

Late at night, while the games were running high, a violent storm broke suddenly upon the sea. When the wind struck the Vigilancia a rudder was broken and she whirled round and round and then dipped down into the hollow of a mighty wave. The shock was unexpected, and in a moment the soldiers were experiencing all of the horrors of a storm at sea. The negroes grabbed up the dice and loose change and huddled together like cattle, some of them moaning and others too frightened to utter a sound.

The storm raged for an hour, the soldiers thinking that every moment would be the last. Fortunately there was a negro preacher on board, the Rev. John L. Waller. It was for him to rise to the occasion. He gathered a crowd of negroes around him and spoke thus:

"Brethren, the Lord sent this storm on the heads of sinful crap shooters. If we want to be saved, let us pray."

Then he dropped down on his knees and his voice was heard praying above the noise of the storm.

The soldiers joined with the preacher in his prayer. In a short time lamentations, moans and promises could be heard on every hand. It was a revival meeting in earnest. Nearly every one of the 800 soldiers was either singing or praying. The whole regiment was "converted" in a very few minutes.

But the rough sea continued. The colored preacher felt that something further must be done. An inspiration came to him. There must be a sacrifice.

"Our prayers and songs don't prevail!" he shouted. "There's something wrong. Brethren, the dice must go into the sea!"

The suggestion had only to be made. The dice were tossed into the angry waters, about 500 pairs. Some of the negroes also threw in the money which they had won with the dice. In half an hour after the dice went the storm abated.

The Rev. John L. Waller held religious services at frequent intervals during the rest of the voyage. They were always well attended. At each meeting he told his hearers that the prayers of the righteous had saved the wicked. Then he urged them all to remain steadfast.

Nothing was said about crap shooting during the rest of the voyage. Shortly after the soldiers landed in Cuba there was a pay day. Then it was that a backslider tried to borrow some dice, but not a single pair could be found in the regiment. They had all been consigned to the sea.

This was a condition that could not last. An ingenious negro soldier stole an ivory billiard ball from a Cuban pool hall and whittled out a pair of dice. He sold them for $12.

Presidential Nicknames.

Washington was nicknamed the Father of His Country, Americus Fabius, the Cincinnatus of the West, Atlas of America, Lovely Georgius (a sarcastic nickname applied by the English soldiery), Flower of the Forest, Deliverer of America, Stepfather of His Country (applied by bitter opponents during his presidency), and Savior of His Country; Adams was nicknamed Colossus of Independence; Jefferson, Sage of Monticello and Long Tom; Madison, Father of the Constitution; Monroe, Last Cocked Hat; J. Q. Adams, Old Man Eloquent; Jackson, Old Hickory, Big Knife and Sharp Knife, Hero of New Orleans, Gin'ral and Old Hero, Van Buren was Little Magician, Wizard of Kinderhook and King Martin the First; Harrison, Tippecanoe, Old Tip and Washington of the West; Tyler, Young Hickory and Accidental President; Polk, Young Hickory; Taylor, Rough and Ready, Old Buena Vista and Old Zach; Fillmore, the American Louis Philippe; Pierce, Purse; Buchanan, Old Public Functionary, Bachelor President and Old Buck.

Cannae.

Cannae, where Hannibal won his greatest victory over the Romans, is situated on the opposite side of the peninsula from the city of Rome, on the river Aufidus and about six miles from its mouth. It was from this battlefield that Hannibal sent to Carthage three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of the Roman knights slain in the battle. Cannae is about 200 miles from Rome.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough 'cures'? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 10 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

I promised to come to town and be examined for some Life Insurance and of all the fool questions that Doctor asked me why he wanted to know if I had small pox. I said no I guess not or they would not let me run around but I told him I had rheumatism worse than Rip Van Winkle ever had why I'll be skinflint if my wife had asked some of the neighbors that if any thing happened they should consider themselves all invited to the funeral.

I just happened into the Centre County Bank and some one called on the phone and said tell Mr. Shugert it is a girl, then John Curtin called up and said please be informed that we have a boy at our house (and that is why the Kurfew whistle did not blow) well said I how about Geo. Meek then they called him up and Geo. said "nothin doin yet" I said I guess the "Furst was last" but a fellow has to be "Meek" about things of this kind Sarah spoke up and said she was at the women's club every night and hadent heard Meek's name mentioned yet but she is some what deaf.

Well sir do you know when Sarah read in the paper about them three little girls sitting in front of tha Democrat office she just began to shed teare as large as soap bubbles and said Jones hitch right up in the spring wagon and fetch them up, and don't leave them walk a step, as the meanest man on this earth or any other is the man who is driving along in an empty conveyence and will pass a woman carrying a baby in one arm and a basket of eggs and a little satchel in the other, when I got to town here they were sitting in the same place and I brought them home just to give them some fresh air and land sakes of all the questions they asked, that little round faced gall wanted to know which cow gave the ice cream and when that tall girl saw our land roller sitting near the barn she thought it was a lawn mower then when we had supper my wife passed the Smear Kase around none of these girls would take any they all thought it was butter one of the girls said oh Mr. Jones what a large barn you have and just to think it is all hand painted then they said why your sheep has whiskers oh no said I that's a goat, then I took them around to the poultry yard and showed them our capons and they all wanted a trio to take along home, but I must go and cut the eyes out of our potatoes so they wont see what these girls did and cut the tongue off the wagon so it would not tell what they said, we had roasting ears and after one of the girls had eaten one handed the cob back to Mrs. Jones and wanted to know if she would not fill that stick up with beans again she thought that was the way beans grew, we also had potatoes boiled with the skins on and I heard her whisper to one of the girls that Mrs. Jones forgot to pare the potatoes but as they have always lived in the city I suppose they did not know better.

Tom Murphy says the difference beween he and an Indian is that the Indian smokes the pipe of Peace while he smokes a piece of pipe.

Old Farmer Jones says He and Sarah was out at snow shoe not long ago and as soon as Sarah got off the train she looked around Expecting to see a big shoe made out of snow about as big as the Curtin Monument. she said she was disapointed and was going to "Bellewould" the next time then she could see, "TieRoan" at the same time she said she always knew when she passed Julian as the fellers around the station only had one leg the other was cut off by the cars?

Well sir the last time we were in town we was driving up high street I was watching three little girls in front of the Democrat office wondering what they would do when mr. Kurtz would get his Patent type setter in operation when all at once Sarah yelled out Jones look over there I'll be Bacon skinned if there aint a Girl across the street got a fit or the St. anthoneys dance look at her Pointing to the North Poll now to seven stars now she acts as if she is going to Jump through her hoops-I said said I, I know what is the matter she has Jined the Ladies club a night or two ago and she was Just giving a sign of recognition to a Lady friend accross the street, so Jones went to the P. O. and ask for his mail and about that one single seven inch trout that Mr. Harter fished a whole day for down at Lemar for fear Sarah would want to Jine that club.

he says as soon as he Put his horse a way went in to the house and they had a surprise Party for him bein his sixty-third golden wedding University, Well sir of all the People I could name over a hundred but don't have time we Just all got around the table and Eat and Partook of the Parboiled chickens the Party brought with them then I said "Kappa Delta Pi" Land sakes says Sarah we have nothing but Elderberry and dried snit Pie I never heard of that new fandangle kind then sarah Picked up the Paper and began reading where Some woman had left a mans Bed and Board and that he would not be responsible for any Colds or things contracted by her as she was not to be trusted why good land she must be ok or she wonld of taken it along; "Responsible" well now she says the only thing they had was a bed and that belonged to her "Responsible" yes that word reminds me when I was down at Cramp ship yards we were holding a Consultation and thought the ship we had just finished had better remain on the stocks a few days longer one of the firm said I should be unwilling to take the responsibility of it when a Poor tramp made his appearance with his trousers shinning with old age and his toes of his boots looking like the mouth of a fish and his hat battered in said, Let her slide "Ill take the responsibility; say do you know you can buy any thing in Belle onte why a feller come to me and wanted to see me Life Insurance I told him I would take a Quarters worth along home to show Sarah but he Explained how it was sold and said I would have to swear I was sound then I just said I can't do it yet a while as only yesterday I swore I was disabled? you know I am an applicant for a Pension let her rest a little while and if they turn me down on the Pension then I'll take the Insurance and the next time I come to town I'll Call on the Dr and "Tryon" be Examined for it I'll be Joe twisted so I will.

a few days a go while Nellie Mittaker was taking some meat home two little girls from "Hogans Alley" stopped her and took the Pkg of meat home and had it for supper. Nellie says the next time they meat it will not be on friendly terms?

Talk about seein the sights Sarah she cant be beat She says Jones now that we come to town to see every thing lets go up to that monument that they say has all the soldiers names on, and see if any of our ancestors are buried there. So up we went hand in hand for fear of getting lost from one another in the crown, Now Sarah she's a great reader and she has often read about the sons of the revolution and the gals of the revolution, so she wanted to see what their names was, but she says landsakes Jones I dont see any women's on here, they must have forgot to print them. I don't see any names that goes with the ones I read about, maybe they claim relationship like Kate Perkins who was a third cousin to you on your step-mothers side of the family. So we went home and did the milkin.

There was a man in our town
His hair was snowy white,
He hunted for the gypsies
From noon till late at night.
The way them men did fool him
Around the Court House ring,
Would make old Satan angry
If they'd play a joke on him,
But never mind the day will come
When they, with hair as snow,
May all be fooled the same
As was our Domino.

The Phantom Fire Ship.

The traditional "fire ship" of the Chaleur bay, New Brunswick, appearing usually before a storm, has a basis of fact, according to a scientist. It is a hemispherical light, with the flat side toward the water, glowing sometimes without much change of form, but at other times rising into slender, moving columns, in which an excited imagination might recognize the flaming rigging of a ship. The general explanation offered is that this object is a manifestation of St. Elmo's fire, an electrical phenomenon, but the reason for its appearing only on or near the Chaleur bay is not known.

Children In Pliny's Day.

It was not a modern American writer who, discussing the children, wrote of them thus: "How many are there who will give place to a man out of respect to his age and dignity? They are shrewd men already and know everything. They are in awe of nobody, but take themselves for their own example." These were the words of Pliny the younger used in one of his famous letters during the first Christian century, but they will strongly apply to much of the young America of today.

Not a Slip of the Tongue.

It is dangerous to pretend to knowledge one does not possess. A man of little education was once a guest at a dinner, during which a servant stumbled so that a roast tongue fell from the platter he was carrying. It was an embarrassing moment, but the quick witted host saved the day by remarking, "Never mind, gentlemen, it's only a 'lapsus lingua.'" This caused much laughter and applause, and instead of being spoiled the dinner was a great success. The boor, wishing to shine as a wit himself, shortly afterward gave a dinner, to which none of those present at the first dinner were invited. When the guests had been seated a servant entered bearing a beef roast. Just before reaching the table he stumbled and fell. The host, leaping to his feet, astonished the guests by exclaiming, "Never mind, gentlemen, it's only a 'lapsus lingua.'"—Kansas City Times.

Got the Autograph.

At Carlsbad on one occasion Brahms' physician, Dr. Grunberger, asked the composer for his autograph for a young lady admirer, but Brahms scolded him for making a nuisance of himself and refused to give it. Some weeks later, at his departure from Carlsbad, Brahms handed to the doctor an envelope inscribed, "With the cordial thanks of Johannes Brahms." Noticing a broad grin on the doctor's face, he asked: "What makes you look so cheerful? You don't know yet what the envelope contains." "Nor do I care," retorted the doctor. "The envelope is the main thing. Much obliged for the autograph!"

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR
for children; safe, sure. No opiates
For sale by C M Parrish.

PILES get quick and certain relief from Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment. Please note it is made alone for Piles, and its action is positive and certain. Itching, painful, protruding or blind piles disappear like magic by its use. Large nickle-capped glass jars 50 cents. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

More News from the New England States.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin Stimpson, of Willimantic, Conn., who after almost losing hope of recovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all suffering incident to acute kidney trouble.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is best for women and children. Its mild action and pleasant taste makes it preferable to violent purgatives such as pills, tablets, etc. Get the booklet and a sample of Oreno at C. M. Parrish.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

I will mail you free, too prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys, are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken there nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves". Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

DETECTING A FORGERY.

Pen Scope and Slant Cannot Be Imitated With a Free Stroke.

In many criminal trials the charge of forgery is proved or disproved by handwriting experts. A man may be convinced that a signature is his own, when along comes a handwriting expert who never saw him before to tell him that it was written by some one else.

How does the expert know? Apparently by a few general principles, by a marked power of deduction a la Sherlock Holmes and by a measure of common sense. Harold N. Sandberg, a well known expert, explained some of the methods of his profession in the Chicago Tribune:

"The expert in chirography may put a juror to the proof that out of a dozen signatures of his own name no two will be alike in general form. Then he may turn to the authentic and forged signatures in almost any case and show to the layman that the first question of forgery arose from the fact that these two signatures at a first glance are identically alike to almost the minutest detail. With all the skill which the forger puts into his crooked work, he keeps to the old principle of copying the authentic signature which he has in hand, and the more nearly he can reproduce the signature in every proportion the more readily the forgery can be proved.

"One of the most important facts from which the expert may begin his investigations of possible forgery is that every man using a pen in writing has his 'pen scope.' This technical term describes the average stretch of paper which a man may cover without lifting the pen from the paper and shifting his hand to continue the line.

"In the case of the signature of one's name, it should be one of the easiest and least studied group of words which he is called on to put upon paper. In writing a letter, for example, the pen scope through it may show an average stretch of one inch for the text of the letter, while in the signature the whole length of the signature, twice as long, may be covered, but if the writer covers this full stretch of his name in this way the expert may prove by the shorter pen scope of the copyist that the studied copy is a forgery on its face, for, however free of stroke the forger may be, naturally his effort to produce a facsimile of another man's signature will make his scope shorter than that of the original signer.

"One of the commonest means of reproducing a signature is to put the genuine signature on a piece of glass, lay another piece of glass on top of it and fasten the piece of paper that is to receive the forgery on top of that. Then by holding the glass strips to a bright light the original signature casts a shadow through, which may be traced in pencil. From this tracing the ink forgery is completed.

"But when a forgery done in this way is put under a strong magnifying lens it will not bear scrutiny. If the original has a strong down stroke on the capital letters the movement will be free and will leave the pen lines with smooth edges. The man who is tracing such letters cannot trust himself to the same free movement of the pen, and the result under the glass shows hesitation and uncertainty."

Trailed by Indians In New York.

Bishop Hare of the diocese of South Dakota was sent west many years ago as a missionary bishop of the Episcopal church. He founded the mission at the Rosebud Indian agency, and it was his custom to give each Indian that he confirmed a silver cross of a peculiar pattern.

A number of years ago a lady from New York was visiting in South Dakota, and the bishop gave her one of these crosses.

Some years after that there was a general convention of the Episcopal church held in New York city, and several Indians were sent as delegates, all wearing Bishop Hare's crosses.

Arriving in New York, they were dazed and at a loss to know how to find the building where the convention was to be held, but stoically they started out upon the street. Soon after they met a lady, whom they immediately began to follow. Whenever she turned, wherever she went, they went too. The lady became much annoyed and finally thoroughly frightened to find that wherever she went a line of red men was trailing behind her.

But investigation explained it. She wore their cross, and they, seeing it, had believed her one of their number who would surely go to the meeting they wished to attend, so they had taken her for their guide.

Poetry With a Sting In It.

On one occasion when William Hamilton Hayne was visiting Samuel Minturn Peck at the latter's home in Tuskaloosa the two poets strolled into the woods and paused to rest beneath the shadows of the pines.

"Here are your favorite pines, Hayne," said Peck. "Let's dream a few poems beneath them."

The languid summer day had its effect on them, and they were soon snoring and dreaming away.

But suddenly both awoke and both started down the home road at top speed, shouting as they ran.

An army of yellow jackets had discovered them, and, not being partial to poetry, had forcibly and feelingly resented its intrusion on their domain.

Later, at supper, Peck asked:

"Did you make a poem, Hayne?"

"No," was the meek reply. "I made a poultice!"

"So did I," said Peck.

—Where the watchmen's shanty stood below the P. R. R. passenger station the Company is putting up a tower station.

—Mr. Sidney Krumrine is having the front of his Drug Store remodeled and fixed up in excellent style. When finished it will present a very pretty appearance.

—Every man in the 5th Reg't. N. G. P. will have a cot to sleep on while at the Tipton Camp. Captain Garbrick placed an order for 60 cots. It will be just like sleeping at home, that is when some fellow don't loosen your tent stakes, or bring you in touch with a barrel stave.

—Mrs. Henry Taylor reached her brothers bedside at Wilkensburg on Sunday afternoon at 2:35, and on Monday evening at 7:30 he passed into eternity. The funeral of Mr. Young will take place from his late home at Wilkensburg.

—Some sneak-thief entered James Harris' tailor shop on Friday night and stole a suit of clothes. He tried several suits on until he got one that fitted and suited him. Mr. Harris says he pretty nearly knows who the fellow is and if he don't come back in a day or two he will have a warrant sworn out for his arrest.

—Now that the college and academy students have gone home, and the Bellefonte girls have shown them such a lovely time the past winter, we suppose the town boys can smear in now and take them to the picnics and dances this summer, but as soon as the schools open again in the fall you can take a back seat again boys. Go on, your as soft as mush.

—The body of George Wood Mark was taken through Bellefonte Thursday from Troy, Ohio, to Spring Mills for burial. Mr. Mrrk who was a son of Henry and Amanda Mark of Spring Mills and a nephew of Daniel Heckman of Bellefonte, died of Bronchitis at the above mentioned city. He was 44 years of age.

—Ward Fleming, a student in the University of Pennsylvania, arrived home Saturday and was accompanied by Miss Maude and Elias Ritz, Miss Winifred Donaldson, of Butler, and Craig Dixon, of Oak Lane, who will compose a house party for the next ten days or two weeks at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Fleming.

—Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Samuel Arnold Helmbold, of Curwinsville, and Miss Julia Elizabeth Rue, of Waynesboro, daughter of the late Rev. John W. Rue, who at one time was pastor of the Bellefonte Methodist Episcopal church. The marriage ceremony will be performed Thursday morning, June 20th. in the Waynesboro M. E. church.

—A fish car from the United States hatchery arrived in Bellefonte over the Lewisburg and Tyrone railroad Friday evening and unloaded thirty cans of fingerling trout for planting in the streams hereabouts. A committee of local fishermen met the car at the depot, secured the fish and deposited them in Spring Creek and Logan branch. The trout were hatched at White Sulphur, West Va.

—On Monday evening a number of young folks gathered at the home of Bert McGinley at Pleasant View and gave him a surprise party. It was the young man's birthday and he was under the impression that everyone had forgotten the event but his mother put his friends next and the result was a great surprise. The young folks had a royal time and during the evening excellent refreshments were served to the delight of all present. Bert received a great many pretty remembrances from his friends, who wish him many happy returns of the day.

—Bellefonte is to have a new garage and it will have it in the near future. It will be built by Will Keichline adjoining his machine shop on Water street and will be one of the most complete and up-to-date garages in this section of the State, according to the plans he now has in view. The building, which will be of brick and located on the south side of his machine shop, where Bullock's blacksmith shop now stands, will be about fifty by forty feet in size. The floor will be practically on a level with the street and it will be fully equipped with a wash and verything necessary for the proper and prompt care of automobiles. Just inside the main entrance there will be a turntable, so that machines can be run in, turned and backed in place or come out right end first, thus saving the necessity of backing out to turn around.

—The Bellefonte Academy closed the most successful year in the history of the school Friday. Those who finished their course and expect to enter college are as follows: Albert Canfield, Charles Fullerton, Raymond Lingle and John Mitchell, State College; Albert Doephin, University of West Virginia; Townsend Frasier, either Cornell or the University of Michigan; Robert McCaslin and David Renton, the School of Forestry, Mont Alto, Pa.; Thomas McCraken University of Pennsylvania; Frank Seyler, University of Tennessee; Wallace Smith, Princeton, and William Shenk, the Wharton school at the University of Pennsylvania. —A squad of constables from along the Bald Eagle Valley arrived in Bellefonte Thursday and with the assistance of half of the town police force went in the hunt of several dogs which some parties at Philipsburg had lost, and it was supposed that the band of gypsies camping near Milesburg had them. One of the men was arrested and with the dog was put in the lockup. We had a talk with one of the constables and he said he didn't think these people have the dogs, at least they couldn't find the ones they were looking for. One was a pointer and the other was a bird dog.

BOROUGH TEACHERS ELECTED.

Board of Education Met on Monday Evening and Selects Instructors.

On Monday the Bellefonte School Directors met in the stone building and elected the teachers for the school term of 1907 and 1908. The directors present were as follows. Crissman, Parker. Barnhart, Harris, Quigley, Fortney, Mingle, and Johnson. W. C. Heinle being out of the city.

The corps of teachers that taught during the last term were re-elected, with the exception of Prof. Dunning who resigned and has entered the ministry. His position at the High School will be filled by Prof. J. S. Ulsh of Lancaster a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College. Prof. Ulsh comes to the Bellefonte people highly recommended by the Franklin and Marshall Faculty and business men of Lancaster and we feel sure he will fill the position in a most acceptable manner

Miss Effie Snyder a graduate of the Bellefonte High School and of Pennsylvania State College was selected to teach the Senior Grammar school at the stone building. Miss Snyder is an exceptionally bright young lady and will doubtless be a success in this school. For some reason this has been very hard school to teach, as three persons taught this grade during the last year, and if it is the fault of the students we say expel them and let them get their education elsewhere.

Miss Sarah Fitzgerald has been selected as supply to all the schools.

For some reason we don't know why the salary's of the teachers cannot be published It may be that we can publish them later. The different committees appointed were as follows.

Finance—D. F. Fortney, J. K. Barnhart, J. P. Harris.

Supplies—M. R. Johnson, G. R. Parker, A. C. Mingle.

Repairs—A. C. Mingle, J. P. Harris, W. C. Heinle.

Grounds—J. P. Harris, A. C. Mingle, M. R. Johnson.

Library—W. C. Heinle, G. R. Parker, H. C. Quigley.

Text Books—H. C. Quigley, M. R. Johnson, J. K. Barnhart.

Accounts Committee—J. K. Barnhart, D. F. Fortney, W. C. Heinle.

High School—G. R. Parker, D. F. Fortney, H. C Quigley.

Mrs. William Zimmerman Dead.

Thursday about 10 o'clock Mrs. William Zimmerman of Hecla Park died very suddenly at her home. She was perfectly well early in the morning and the supposition is that she had paralisis of the heart. She was a daughter of Mrs. Alice Robb of Bellefonte. She leaves to mourn her death a husband six children her mother and several brothers and sisters. She was about 40 years of age.

James Gilbert Taylor.

On Friday June 14th James Gilbert Taylor of Bellefonte, graduated with honors from the United States Military Academy at West Point. Col. Hugh S. Taylor and Mrs. Taylor of Bellefonte attended the graduating exercises. Lieut. Taylor will come home for a short visit and then will accept a commission in the regular army and go to the Philippine Islands.
